

Abstract

577,741

8ul 7
a8

An amusement apparatus for water sports activities wherein a flowing body of water is provided. The water moves across a substantially horizontal surface followed by an inclined surface. The velocity and volume of the flowing body of water is such that a rider may perform surfing maneuvers and water skimming maneuvers thereon. Also disclosed is a device for forming a tunnel wave upon which surfing maneuvers and/or skimming maneuvers may be formed as a part of a composite structure including horizontal and inclined interconnected surfaces.